

Value for Money

"Frontline clearly met our expectations at the final delivery of the project, producing a well written and informative final report. In my opinion Frontline have made an important contribution to the Marine Bill Impact Assessment and offered good value for money."

"I found Frontline Consultants to be very professional, flexible, and understanding of our needs. They had an excellent grasp of this policy initiative and were able to bring practical tools and experience from other sectors to support participants through this organisational development intervention. Frontline provided good value for money and co-ordinated the overall evaluation of the programme across the 3 suppliers, involving 150 participants and a wide range of stakeholders. When difficulties arose, they handled these sensitively and honestly with the client to ensure timely and appropriate resolution."

"Frontline has been part of SE's due diligence framework for R&D Grant support since 2007. During that time I have received many personal commendations from my colleagues on the quality of their work, the speed and robustness of it being undertaken, and the added value enjoyed by both the applicants and SE's account managers from having Frontline involved in their project appraisals. In particular, the quality of assessment given to the calculation of economic benefits was so good that they have been instrumental in creating guidance for others with SE to use, helping SE assess Grant applications on a like-by-like basis against their potential economic impact."

"We were very pleased with the standard of the service provided by Frontline under this contract. Frontline provided the consultancy services to the required dates and within the budget set; their personnel were of a very good standard, being both capable and responsive. Frontline has since been invited to tender for work supporting the third wave of NHS foundation trust applicants and they are now working with 5 NHS trusts providing intensive support as they prepare their business cases for foundation trust status."
